06. Happy, Page 25

HAPPY: Sure, the guy's in line for the vice-presidency of the store. I don't know what gets into me, maybe I just have an overdeveloped sense of competition or something, but I went and ruined her, and furthermore I can't get rid of her. And he's the third executive I've done that to. Isn't that a crummy characteristic? And to top it all, I go to their wedding! Indignantly, but laughing: Like I'm not supposed to take bribes. Manufacturers offer me a hundred-dollar bill now and then to throw an order their way.
You know how honest I am, but it's like this girl. see. I hate myself for it. Because I don't want the girl, and, still, I take it and--I love it!